

The Mount Nevis Hotel

OUR STORY BEGINS IN 1989

In Herman Wouk's 1965 novel, "Don't Stop the Carnival", he writes about a New York press agent who decides to abandon his big city life and buy a hotel on a Caribbean island. He thought he would spend his days sipping rum punch and gazing out to sea. Little did he know about operating a hotel on a small Caribbean island. He had much to learn, and so did we.

We built our hotel on Nevis' Round Hill Estate, a lime plantation in the early 1800's. We fell in love with the view and decided that it would be the perfect location for a small, intimate, family-run hotel. We set off on a challenge – the biggest of our lifetime. We packed up our lives and left the sleepy town of North Tarrytown, New York for Nevis.

Our hotel is now 23 years old. We have weathered many storms and have discovered that rainbows really do exist. As a family, we take great pride in our hotel. We hope we will be able to welcome you to our island that we now call home

A wedding at The Mount Nevis Hotel ... so simple, yet so elegant. Just for two or for a large reunion of family or friends.

At the edge of The Mount Nevis Hotel's lawn, are the ruins of 200 year old Cottle Church. In 1824, Thomas Cottle, a former president of Nevis and plantation owner, completed the construction of the Cottle Church on a small portion of his estate. This picturesque ruin is an ideal spot for a wedding. Over the years, many ceremonies have taken place on the steps of the church
